WASHERY WILL BE RESTARTED

MACHINERY MUST BE REPAIRED, SAYS MR. WARNEK.

A Test Will Be Given the Crippled Machinery at the Warnke Washery, After Which It Will Be Repaired and Work Resumed—Arrests Expected Today at Duryea—Major W. W. Inglis, Who Is Back from Shenandoah, Says Erie Will Not Start Any Collieries.

Reports which were yesterday current to the effect that efforts would be made tomorrow to again start the Warnke washery at Duryea, were yesterday denied by General Manager Frederick Warnke, who said to a Tribune man:

"It will be impossible for us to start work immediately, on account of the condition of our machinery, and, in fact, I doubt whether we will be able to do anything this week. We will give the machinery a thorough test, as soon as possible, in order to ascertain just what repairs are necessary, and then, after these are made, work will be resumed. We aren't afraid of the Duryea mob, and the washery is going to run, just as soon as it is in proper condition to be operated."

Mr. Warnke also denied the florid reports sent out from Wilkes-Barre that hundreds of warrants had been sworn out in that city and were to be served on residents of Duryea for complicity in Thursday's riots.

"That article was totally incorrect," said he. "No warrants have yet been sworn out, but I will not say how many are going to be sworn out tomorrow. There will be plenty of developments in the matter then."

There will be a hearing before Judge Halsey, in Wilkes-Barre, this morning on the application to release the deputies arrested Thursday by the police of Duryea. They were held in heavy bail by the burgess of Duryea that day.

Henry Carrin, the deputy who was so brutally assaulted Thursday that his injuries necessitated his being taken to the Lackawanna hospital, was Saturday allowed to leave that institution for his home on Lackawanna avenue. He will remain under a physician's care and continue to receive treatment for the injury to his scalp.

A fact which has been revealed since Thursday's trouble, in connection with this same man Carrin, shows that Duryea came near losing Chief of Police Cosgrove during the attack on the washery. When the mob was advancing against the washery guards, Carrin raised his rifle, took aim at one of the men in the crowd, and was just about to fire, when the head deputy struck up his rifle, hurriedly exclaiming: "Don't shoot, Carrin, that's Chief Cosgrove." The weapon was discharged harmlessly in the air.

The strike is now in its fourteenth week, and with the exception of the riots at Throop and Duryea, the local situation has not changed to any extent in the last several weeks.

The Oxford, Dickson, Dodge and Cayuga collieries are being operated, as well as several washeries, but with the exception of those no aggressive measures have yet been taken by the local operators.

The Erie company continues to maintain the passive attitude which has characterized its movements since the beginning of the strike. Major W. W. Inglis, who is superintendent of the Hillside department of the Erie's coal interests, has returned from Shenandoah, where he was called by his duties as ordinary member of the Third brigade, where the Eighth and Twelfth regiments were called out, and reports all quiet among the strikers in that region.

NOT TO RESUME.

In a conversation with a Tribune man he stated that the Erie is not at present entertaining the idea of resuming work at any of its collieries. President John Mitchell, of the mine workers, left Saturday for his home in Indianapolis. He had a brief interview with President T. D. Nicholls, of District No. 1, before his departure. He will visit his family, and at the same time transact some business at national headquarters before his return, which will occur in about two weeks.

A meeting of Spencer's local will be held in Manley's hall, Dunmore, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. A mass meeting of the mine workers will shortly be held in Throop. It will be addressed by President Nicholls, Secretary Dempsey, "Mother" Mary Jones, and others. Charles Boltum, the colored man, who was nearly lynched by the Duryea mob last Thursday was released on $300 bail on Saturday by Judge Edwards. Boltum was one of the men employed at the Warnke washery and was rescued from the mob by Deputy Sheriff John Gaffney, who placed him under arrest on the charge of discharging firearms.

FROM THE MINING JOURNAL.

Says Saturday's Engineering and Mining Journal:

A few more mines and washeries are working, but the total production of anthracite is but a very small fraction of normal figures. The strike leaders are concentrating their efforts on those districts where the men have shown most dissatisfaction at the prolonged idleness and are using their most effective speakers to hold the men in line. These efforts have not been without result, and the strike may last longer than seemed likely a few weeks ago. The operators maintain the position they took at the beginning of the strike, and newspaper clamor has not been without result, and the strike may last longer than seemed likely a few weeks ago. ALLEGED MURDERER ARRESTED IN DETROIT

Police Have Been Looking for the Man for More Than a Year.

History of the Crime.

Superintendent of Police Day received a telegram yesterday afternoon from the police authorities at Detroit announcing the arrest there of Wladislaw Konstantynow, who is wanted here for the murder of "Joe" Benna-viech on the night of July 27, 1901. This ends a long and trying search for the prisoner.

The discovery of the whereabouts of Konstantynow was brought about in a rather peculiar manner. After the murder he left the city and was traced up the valley, but the police failed to locate him. Friends of the murdered man wrote to friends in Austria who live in the same town as Konstantynow's wife, asking them to try and get possession of any letters which he might send home, and ascertain where they were sent from.

In the course of several months word came from these people in Austria that Konstantynow was sending letters from Detroit and the police of the latter city were put on his trail. Several months ago the latter sent word on here that they had arrested their man.

The local police were inclined to be a little bit skeptical and sent a man on from North Scranton to identify the prisoner. It turned out that the man under arrest was not the right one, though he lived in the same house with Konstantynow and had letters addressed to the latter in his possession. The telegrams received yesterday by Superintendent Day announce that there is no mistake this time and that the right man is in custody.

He admits the killing, but says it was done in self-defense during a fight. He has waived extradition and will be brought here as soon as an officer can get after him.

On the night of July 21, 1901, Bennoviech paid a visit to Konstantynow at the latter's boarding house on Welles street, and the two drank together for some time. Bennoviech finally accused Konstantynow of stealing a horse belonging to him in the old country and a violent quarrel ensued.

Konstantynow beat Bennoviech unmercifully and he was in custody, and threw him over the front porch railing, a distance of several feet, to the ground. The fall broke Bennoviech's neck, killing him instantly. Konstantynow pulled the body of the dead man from the front yard into the street, and after kicking it several times, ran up the street and has not been seen here since.

ONE MEMBER FOR SIXTH.

Committee Decides to Accept Assessor's List of Taxables.

The members of the joint apportionment committee of councils, appointed to apportion the number of common councilmen for the next four years in accordance with the provisions of the act of 1891, met on Saturday morning and compiled their report, based on the return made by the assessors some weeks ago of the number of taxables in each ward.

The report prepared by the committee provides for a reduction of the number of councilmen from the Sixth ward from two to one, and an increase from one to two in the number from the Fifteenth ward. It will be remembered that Messrs McGreevy and Culpin, the two councilmen from the Sixth ward, objected to the return made by the assessors, alleging that it was incorrect, and that the real number of taxables in their ward was sufficient to entitle it to a representation of two members.

Chairman H. E. Paine said yesterday to a Tribune man that the members of the committee felt themselves bound to accept the sworn report of the assessors and that it was not within their province to go over the assessment books for any particular ward.

WAS ATTACKED BY HEART DISEASE

William Harris, of 371 Evans Court, Stricken While Bathing in Lake Ariel.

While swimming at Lake Ariel yesterday afternoon William Harris, of 371 Evans court, had an attack of heart disease, and when removed from the water by friends was found to be dead.

Dr. A. J. Connell, who examined the remains is authority for the statement that there were no signs of the results of drowning apparent in the condition of the body, and that it was very evidently a case of heart failure.

Mr. Harris left this city yesterday morning for Lake Ariel, accompanied by Miss Kearney. They ate dinner at the guests of Isaac and T. R. Owens, who with their families occupy a cottage near the outlet. After dinner the two Owens' and their wives, Harris, Miss Kearney and John P. Hayes, of the firm of Hayes & Varley, of this city, went in swimming. The other three men are all good swimmers, but Harris, who was barely able to swim, remained near the shore with the ladies, never being in water over his chin.

He was suddenly seen to lurch forward and fall prostrate in the water. His three comrades swam swiftly in, to his assistance, and in Harris' struggles, his three friends narrowly escaped drowning themselves. The remains were brought to this city on the 14th inst., and taken to D. D. Jones' undertaking parlors on Washington avenue.

Mr. Harris was the son of James M. Harris, and was employed as a bookkeeper by Jonas Long's Sons. Several years ago his family suffered a similar misfortune, when his uncle was drowned at Lily lake.

JUNK DEALER ARRESTED.

B. Levy Charged with Receiving Stolen Goods.

The owners of the Bull's Head mine reported to the police some time ago that a number of mine car axles had been stolen from an outhouse on the mine property. Detective Deiter began a systematic search of all the local junk shops, which resulted in the discovery of the missing axles in a freight car in the Delaware and Hudson yard, ready for shipment.

They had been shipped by B. Levy, the Penn avenue junk dealer, who was placed under arrest and held under bail on the charge of receiving stolen goods.
